Details about the walking holiday in Madeira

The tour in Madeira starts in the small fishing village of Porto da Cruz on the black sand beach. Be sure to try a "Poncha," a drink made from honey, orange juice, and sugar cane brandy. The daily routes run on varied hiking trails, which can sometimes also be narrow paths. In some places, you should certainly not be afraid of heights and stand firm. The daily walks during your tour of Madeira's botanical paradise are an average of five hours a day.

The highlights of this walking holiday at a glance:

- Breathtaking views of the coast: Walk along the impressive north coast via Boca do Risco leads over an old supply route. Enjoy the view from the spectacular terraces of Porto da Cruz
- Exotic floral splendour: Explore shady laurel forests, part of the UNESCO World Heritage, that accompany you on your route
- Lava stone sea pools: The most beautiful places to swim can be found in Funchal and Porto Moniz. Tip for snorkelers and divers: the Gulf Stream is home to tropical biodiversity! So don't forget your mask!
- Vibrant capital Funchal: The city has many attractions. The Sé Cathedral and the Market Hall are well worth a visit.

Things to know about hiking in Madeira

Walking in Madeira also means packing multifunctional clothes. In the north, surrounded by barren mountains and humid plateaus, it is cool. The sunny south impresses with flowers, eucalyptus trees and diverse cultures. The island of 235,000 inhabitants leaves plenty of room for romantic and idyllic art walks. One of the most beautiful villages in Madeira is Prazeres.

Here you will experience the original life of the islanders. Why not hop in a sleigh made of wicker trees and make the rapid descent from Monte to Funchal?

Route summary

Daily routes along well-built and very diverse paths, which can however sometimes be on narrow paths. Lots of paths run along the coastline and also along Levadas (irrigation canals), where a head for heights and sure-footedness are essential in some sections.
